

Biography: Dr Mohamed Ally

Dr. Mohamed Ally was the Chair of Mlearn 2006 that was held in Canada. He is an Associate Professor at Athabasca University in Canada. He is currently conducting research in the areas of use of mobile technology in learning and training, mobile library, workplace learning, and skills required for the 21st Century graduate. Two research projects he is currently working on are designing and delivering language lessons on mobile technology and delivering training at a distance using mobile technology. He recently presented and published papers on the use of emerging technology to bridge the digital divide, mobile learning, and mobile library. He has published papers in books, journals, and encyclopedia.