

Biography: Caryl Oliver – Chair, mLearn 2007

Caryl has been passionate about mobile for 5 years and has worked since 2004 to bring the mLearn Conference to Melbourne to give her friends and colleagues the opportunity to share their enthusiasm and success in mobile learning.

While currently seconded to the TAFE Development Centre and responsible for e-learning activity throughout the State, Caryl is normally leading the Tourism and Events department at William Angliss Institute where she has gradually moved the culture of the department towards mobility, digital story telling and the inclusion of mobility in the Teaching and Learning Strategic Plan.

Caryl spends a great deal of time addressing conferences, seminars and workshops about mobile learning and in showing her audience how to take the first steps towards truly flexible delivery! In her spare time Caryl teaches people how to train their dogs which is a whole different view on mobile learning!
